

MARCH FLES NEWS

In February, students in grades 1-4 continued their exploration of language for requesting and expressing preferences for foods. They learned about lunch specialties in Quebec, and how to order dinner and French desserts. They voted in French for their favorite votes and calculated the least and most popular selections. Most importantly, they practiced asking politely, and expressing their opinions. They also talked and wrote about what they do when it snows, learned about Saint-Valentin, Québec, and made valentines in French.

Kindergarten students are talking in French about weather, the calendar, family and pets. Our songs and gestures help us all practice and remember lots of new language! They can ask for snack foods in French and are learning about breakfast as well. They are acquiring quite a lot of new language through simple stories. A cute story about a little dog looking for a friend among the farm animals enabled them to begin recognizing French text, and they used the new language to tell their classmates, "you are my friend!"
